Sayings of Kentucky Editors.

The action of the Clark county jury in fining B. F. French $5,000 for spiriting away witnesses in the damage suit of Mrs. J. B. Marcum, says the Courier-Journal, will be generally approved. There is no question whatever as to French's guilt, and he may consider himself fortunate in keeping out of jail. The case in which he officiated as exporter of witnesses was that in which, despite his labors, another Clark county jury found his pal, Jim Hargis, guilty of the murder of J. B. Marcum.

The resolutions adopted by the Republicans of Breathitt county, or rather by the citizens of that county that met in convention at Jackson on Saturday, say: "The Lexington Herald, showing the feeling of the people of the county. This is the first convention held by the Republicans of the county since the assassination of Cox, Cockrell and Marcum, and the first resolutions adopted with anti-assassination as the issue of the campaign. Upon the lines set out in the resolutions, the people expect to make the fight of the campaign, a campaign which promises to be interesting in the extreme, and of momentous importance to the people of that county."

See J. R. Blake's 10c window. The bargain will surprise you.

Startling Mortality.

Statistics show startling mortality from appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery, of 11 Custom House Place, Chicago, says: "They have no equal for constipation and biliousness." 25c at Jackson Drug Company.

YOU'RE NEXT.

I have moved back into my old stand in the Crawford building, where I have had my shop thoroughly overhauled and repaired. I am now in the nearest and best manner. Yours respectfully,

W. H. WHITAKER.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for 15 years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gilman, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by the Jackson Drug Co.

Proposals for Macadamizing.

Sealed proposals, endorsed on outside of envelope, "Proposals for Macadam Roads," will be received by the undersigned until 8 o'clock p. m. on the 25th day of September, A. D., 1905, for building macadam roads, with stone curbs, on certain streets in the town of Jackson, Ky. All proposals must be made on blank forms obtained from T. G. Back, Town Clerk, and must be accompanied by a certified check on a responsible bank for $500.00, made payable to T. G. Back, Town Clerk, as surety that if the proposal be accepted a contract will be entered into. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of Town Clerk. The right to reject all proposals is reserved.

D. B. REDWINE, Chairman.
T. G. BACK, Clerk.

A Remedy Without a Peer.

"I had Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets more beneficial than any other remedy I ever used for stomach trouble," says J. P. Klote, of Edina, Mo. For any disorder of the stomach, biliousness or constipation, these Tablets are without a peer. For sale by Jackson Drug Co.

J. S. DUSS,
Leader of the Duss Band, at the Big State Fair at Lexington all next week.

No Unpleasant Effect.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness and constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Justice of the Peace Adam Shook, New Lisbon, Ind., says: "Some three years ago I had a spell of grip and felt outdone and I happened to get a trial box of DeWitt's Little Early Risers and they gave me strength and muscle." They do not grip or make you feel sick. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Incredible Brutality.

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemberger, of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye." Good for burns and aches too. Only 25c at Jackson Drug Co.

Mistakes Attract Attention.

The average person takes pleasure in calling attention to errors in spelling or grammar in signs. The mistakes furnish a temptation to display their knowledge that is hard to resist. "Every now and then," said a local haberdasher, "I fix up a window sign with a misspelled word or an error in grammar in it. Dozens of people drop in to tell me where it's wrong. Of course I am surprised and thank them. Then the chances are I will sell them something." At a Kansas City theater there used to be an advertising curtain which bore the word "versus" spelled "verses." The word attracted more comment than many of the acts did. It made people talk about the theater, and in the theatrical business to get the public to talking about things is the first step toward money making. So many people began to bother the house manager about the misspelled word, however, that he finally had to have it changed.—Kansas City Times.

Cause of Insomnia.

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomnia. Many cases have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Jackson Drug Co.

The Crucifix in the Banana.

The increasing popularity of the banana in this country recalls a curious reference to the fruit to be found in an old volume entitled "The Glasse of Time in the First Age," divinely handled by Thomas Percy (1629). In the eighty-first stanza occurs the following:

A cucumber much like it is in shew,
Of pleasing taste and sweet delightful hue,
If with a knife the fruit in two you reave,
A perfect cross you shall therein perceive.

In the Canary Islands and in Brazil it was regarded as an affront to the Saviour to cut the banana with a knife, as it revealed the crucifix. But in order to see this clearly it is necessary to cut the fruit when it first commences to ripen or, if ripe, immediately after it is taken from the plant.—London Standard.

Men Past 60 in Danger.

More than half of mankind over 60 years suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for 20 years, although I am now 91 years old." Jackson Drug Co.

Points About Pins.

Thorns were originally used in fastening garments together. Pins did not immediately succeed thorns as fasteners, but different appliances were used, such as hooks, buckles and laces. It was the latter half of the fifteenth century before pins were used in Great Britain. When first manufactured in England the iron wire of the proper length was filed to a point and the other extremity twisted into a head. This was a slow process, and 400 or 500 pins was a good day's work for an expert hand. The United States has the credit of inventing the first machine for making pins. This was in 1824. The inventor was one Samuel Whitman Wright.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs and expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

The Mustache.

The home of the mustache is Spain, and here is the history of its origin. After the Moors first invaded the country the Christian and Moslem population became so mixed that it was difficult to say which were Moors and which Spaniards. The Spaniards then hit upon a means by which they could at once distinguish their brethren. They did not shave their lips any longer and they allowed a tuft of hair to grow below their upper lips, so that their beards formed the rude outline of a cross. Thus the mustache became a symbol of liberty and fraternity.

A Clear Complexion and Bright Eyes.

In most cases a sallow, blotched complexion and dull heavy eyes are due to poor digestion and inactive liver. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cleans the bowels and makes the complexion smooth and clear. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or grip and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. Jackson Drug Co.

The Undesirable Simple Life.

Cheese and a cottage complicated life if your digestion is weak and your desire urban. So poverty is a less simple state than the possession of an income, because you are forced, if not into envy, the chief deficiency from simplicity, into struggle with unessential details, with the effort to get hold of something which is of no matter.—London Outlook.

J. R. Blake has fitted up a five and ten cent window in his store. Every article a bargain.

Branding Criminals.

Until the end of the eighteenth century the prisoners' dock in most important English law courts was furnished with an iron upright and collar fixed in front of the person who was being tried. If a conviction followed and the judge elected to include a decree of branding in the sentence that portion of it was carried out upon the spot. The criminal's hand was put through the collar, which was effectually screwed round the wrist and, the necessary branding iron having been previously heated in the courthouse fire, was forthwith marked upon the thumb with the letters which the judge directed to be burned upon it.

Always Successful.

When indigestion becomes chronic it is dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion and all troubles resulting therefrom thus preventing catastrophe of the stomach. Dr. Newbrough of League, W. Va., says: "To those suffering from indigestion or sour stomach I would say there is no better remedy than Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have prescribed it for a number of my patients with good success." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and makes your stomach sweet. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Whistler's Idea of Hands.

Whistler, the artist, said: "I always use Irish models for hands, with their long, slender fingers and delightful articulations, the most beautiful hands in the world. I think Irish eyes are also the most beautiful. American girls' hands come next. English girls have red, coarse hands; the German girl has broad, flat hands, and the Spanish hand is full of big veins."

Strikes Hidden Rocks.

When your ship of health strikes the hidden rocks of Consumption, Pneumonia, etc., you are lost if you don't get help from Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, J.W. McKinnon, of Talladega Springs, Ala., writes: "I had been very ill with pneumonia, under the care of two doctors, but getting no better when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. The first dose gave relief and one bottle cured me." Sure cure for sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds. Guaranteed at the Jackson Drug Co. price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Cloth Dyed With Cobalt.

Cloth changes color with a change of weather if it is dyed with chloride of cobalt. In clear weather it is a blue. When a change is near it turns to violet and for rain to bright pink. The change is due to moisture, and it can be produced by breathing upon the cloth. This property of cobalt salts has been applied to the construction of floral hygrometers. The petals of artificial flowers are tinted with cobalt salts and vary in color from blue to pink according to the weather. Their action is different from that of a barometer, which indicates a change of pressure of the atmosphere and is also usually behind the change of weather. The barometer indicates the cause of the storm, and the colored cloth shows its effect.

Best For Children.

Mothers, be careful of the health of your children. Look out for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiate. A. L. Spafford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses half an hour apart of One Minute Cough Cure speedily cured her. Sold by Jackson Drug Co."

The Tempering of Copper.

The expression, "the tempering of copper," arises from a thirteenth century misunderstanding of the Greek word tempe, a word used by the Greek-Egyptian alchemists writers of the third century. Berthelot, the eminent authority on alchemy, has shown tempe word may mean tempering. Tempering cloth, glass and metals, the coloring materials or the coloring bath. Egyptian alchemy was based originally in producing brilliant bronzes on copper and the copper alloys, and this expression "the tempering of copper" means, and always has meant, bronzing copper so that it may simulate silver or gold.—Arthur Jones Hopkins in New York Times.

Dr. Finn's Testimony Interesting.

Dr. Thomas Finn, of Boonshoro, Mo., who has practiced medicine for 32 years says he has used every prescription known to the profession for treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, and says he has never found anything so effective in both chronic and acute kidney and bladder trouble as Foley's Kidney Cure. It stops irregularities, builds up the whole system. Jackson Drug Co.

Cheaper.

Noddy—I thought you were going to get up a fair to pay off your church debt. Todd—We were, but the congregation heard of it and made up the amount at once.

Numerous and Worthless.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for piles, for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases. DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Jackson Drug Co.

Compare the ticket, man for man, and ask yourself which is the more worthy of your support.

WYNNEWOOD, I. T., 10, 11, '05.

EDITOR NEWS:

I will ask for space in your newsy paper for a few lines. I left Breathitt county on February 5, 1905, in company with my son, Edward T. Landrum, and Alfred Noble for the Indian Territory, and arrived at G. W. Noble's on the 8th; stayed there one month, saw old Uncle Billy Haynes and wife, also Dr. Roberts and wife. Then I came to the Chicasaw Nation and have been here ever since. Wynnewood is a beautiful town of 3,500 inhabitants, has 5 churches, several large stores, 3 cotton gins and it is an industrious place. The country is level and rich and the soil produces most all kinds of vegetation. There are some chills here, though I never had better health than I have had since I arrived here. I have met with some of our old Breathitt county neighbors. G. I. and B. G. Whitaker are running a blacksmith shop here and are doing a good business. S. W. LANDRUM.

All persons wanting Nature's herbs, will address, J. C. White, Belknap Ky.

Meet Me at the Big State Fair.

The Big State Fair begins at Lexington next Monday. A large delegation from Breathitt county will attend during the week. All the ground south of the driveway and the grand stand at the fair grounds will be reserved for the amusement features of the Will S. Fleck World's Fair Pike Carnival Company. There will be a Buckskin Ben's Wild West show, a band of Lady Athletes, a Turkish Theater, a Coliseum, a Reptile Den, an Arcade, a Plantation show with brass band accompaniment, a Condemner Ferris wheel, "The Girl in the Moon," "Nemo" a platform show and various other productions. But more interesting and of greater importance than all of these combined will be the famous band of Igorrotes, which have been secured for the fair. These strange, primitive people from the Philippines attracted greater attention than any other one feature at the world's fair at St. Louis. Another great attraction will be the famous Duss Band of 40 musicians.

Clarence Hadden's is the only place you can get Mother's Bread.

Reunion of Duff Family.

The family of venerable Henry Duff, consisting of himself and wife, eight daughters and four sons, met in happy reunion at the old home on the Kentucky river, eighteen miles above Jackson, on September 1st. It was probably the most remarkable family reunion ever held in this section. The father and mother, 79 and 76 respectively and the sons and daughters ranging in ages from 33 to 58 years. There has never been a death in the family, and each member was in most perfect health. Even the aged father and mother showed no weight of years, but instead moved among the reunited band with all activity of youth, and in strength and vigor that promised yet many years. The sons and daughters have married into some of the most prominent families, all being married except the youngest daughter. They are: Mrs. Andrew T. Hurst, Mrs. Z. T. Hunt and Mrs. A. M. Arnold, of this county; Mrs. W. L. Hurst and Mrs. A. T. Combs, of Wolfe county; Mrs. Brutus McGuire, of Lee county; Mrs. Polly Davidson, of Hyden; and Messrs. E. C. John, Ned and Potter Duff, of this county, and Miss Docea Duff, who is still at home.

A Short Sketch of the Life of T. P. Cardwell, Sr.

T. P. Cardwell, Sr., was born in Williamsburg, Whitley county, Ky., July 12, 1829. His father, John Cardwell, and his mother, Araminta Watkins, were of the most prominent families in Tennessee. His father moved to Knox county, Tenn., eight miles above Knoxville, from there he moved to Jefferson county, Tenn., from there to Hall county, Ky., and from there to Breathitt county in 1839, and resided there until his death in 1876. His mother departed this life in March, 1891. T. P. Cardwell married Ellen Smith, daughter of J. W. Smith, who resided in Frankfort in 1850, and was at the time of his death master of the State prison. Said Cardwell has resided in Breathitt county since 1839. The first vote he ever cast was for the Whig party. He remained as such up to the late war and has been an ardent worker in the Republican party to this date. He was a candidate for the legislature in 1865, and was defeated by Hon. John S. Hargis, and was defeated by Hon. Magoffin and Johnson, Morton

Joseph Gardner in 1861 by this Pieratt, of Morgan, was the Democratic candidate to fill the unexpired term of his brother, Rance Pieratt, who died as senator, and was defeated by Pieratt 437 votes, carrying a majority of 252 votes his own county of Breathitt, which usually gave from 300 to 400 Democratic majority. In 1865, when he made the race for the Senate, he only lost five votes in Breathitt county to-wit: Col. Edward Strong, of Crockettville district, two of the Ledfords, who were related to Mr. Farmer, from the Crawford precinct, Henry Cockrill and a Mr. Hollen from the Holly precinct, Cardwell receiving all the votes cast in the county but the five named. He never made a race at any time only by the united solicitation of the Republican party.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

FOR every man he knew and loved Mr. Greeley had a kindness that filled him to the finger tips. When I returned he snote me on the breast, an unfailing mark of his favor, and doubled my salary.

"If he ever smites you on the breast," McClinghan had once said to me, "turn the other side, for, man, your fortune is made."

And there was some truth in the warning.

He was writing when I came in. A woman sat beside him talking. An immense ham lay on the marble top of the steam radiator. A basket of eggs sat on the floor near Mr. Greeley's desk. All sorts of merchandise were sent to the Tribune those days for notice and sold at auction to members of the staff by Mr. Dana.

"Yes, yes, madam. Go on, I hear you," said the great editor as he pen flew across the white page.

She asked him then for a loan of money. He continued writing, but presently his left hand dove into his trousers pocket, coming forth a roll of bills.

"Take what you want," said he, holding it toward her, "and please go, for I am very busy." Whereupon she helped herself liberally and went away.

Seeing me, Mr. Greeley came and shook my hand warmly and praised me for a good soldier.

"Going downtown?" he said in a moment, drawing on his big white overcoat. "Walk along with me, won't you?"

We crossed the park, he leading me with long strides. As he walked he told how he had been suffering from brain fever. Passing St. Paul's churchyard he brushed the iron pickets with his hand as if to try the feel of them.

Many turned to stare at him curiously. He asked me soon if I would care to do a certain thing for the Tribune.

Stopping to look in at a show window as I hurried him, I waited while he did his errand at a Broadway shop, then we came back to the office. The publisher was in Mr. Greeley's room.

"Where's my ham, Dave?" said the editor as he looked at the slab of marble where the ham had lain.

"Don't know for sure," said the publisher. "It's probably up at the house of the editor by this time."

"What did you go and give it to him for?" drawled Mr. Greeley in a tone of irrepressible injury. "I wanted that ham for myself."

"I didn't give it to him," said the publisher. "He came and helped himself. Said he supposed it was sent in for notice."

"The infernal thief!" Mr. Greeley piped with a violent gesture. "I'll swear if I didn't keep my shirt buttoned tight they'd have that too."

The ham was a serious obstacle in the way of my business, and it went over until evening. But that and like incidents made me to know the man as I have never seen him pictured—a boy grown old and gray, pushing the power of manhood with the ardors of youth.

I resumed work on the Tribune that week. My first assignment was a mass meeting in a big temporary structure, then called a wigwag, over in Brooklyn. My political life began that day and all by an odd chance.

The wigwag was crowded to the doors. The audience had been waiting half an hour for the speaker. The chairman had been doing his best to kill time, but had run out of ammunition. He had sat down to wait. An awkward silence had begun. The crowd was stamping and whistling and clapping with impatience. As I walked down the center aisle to the reporters' table they seemed to mistake me for the speaker. Instantly a great uproar began. It grew louder every step I took. I began to wonder and then to fear the truth. As I neared the stage the chairman came forward, beckoning to me. I went to the edge of steps leading up to that higher level of distinction, dashed citizens and hailed, and asked what to do.

"What is your name?" he asked, and I answered him.

"What is your name?" he asked, and I answered him.

"What is your name?" he asked, and I answered him.

icked. I shall not carry a single state. I am going to be slaughtered."

He had read his fate and better than he knew. In politics he was a great prophet.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE north country lay buried in the snow that Christmas time. Here and there the steam plow had thrown its furrows on either side of the railroad high above the window line. The fences were muffled in long ridges of snow, their stakes showing like pins in the cushion on white velvet.

"I have never seen such a glory of the morning as when the stars came up that day. We were hearing home and lit the splendor of the hills there in the land I love. The frosty nap of the snow glowed far and near with pulsing glints of pale sapphire."

We came into Hillsborough at noon the day before Christmas. Father and Uncle Eb met us at the depot, and mother stood waving her handkerchief at the door as we drove up. And when we were done with our greetings and were standing, damp eyed, to warm ourselves at the fire Uncle Eb brought his palms together with a loud smack and said:

"Look here, Lizbeth Brower! I want t'hev ye tell me if ye ever see a like-lier pair o' colts!"

She laughed as she looked at us. In a moment she ran her hand down the side of Hope's gown. Then she lifted a fold of the cloth and felt of it thoughtfully.

"How much was that a yard?" she asked, a gleamy look in her eyes.

"W'y, w'y?" she continued as Hope told her. "Terrible steep, but it does fit splendid! Oughter wear well too! Wish ye'd put that on if ye got t' church nex' Sunday."

"Oh, mother," said Hope, laughing. "I'll wear my blue silk."

"Come, boys an' girls," said Elizabeth suddenly, "dinner's all ready in the other room."

"Beats the world!" said Uncle Eb as we sat down at the table. "Ye do look gran' t' me—ree-markable gran', both uv ye. Tek a premium on any fair-ye would sartain'."

"Has ye got yer affections?" said David, laughing, as he looked over at Hope.

"He has," said she solemnly.

"Affections are a singular kind o' property," said Uncle Eb. "Hain't good fer nuthin' 'til ye've gin em away. Then, like as not, they git very val'ble."

"Good deal that way with money, too," said Elizabeth Brower.

"I recollect when Hope was a feeble bit uv a girl," said Uncle Eb. "She used t' say t' when she got married, she was goin' t' hev her husband rub my back fer me when it was lame."

"I haven't forgotten it," said Hope, "and if you will all come you will make us happier."

"Good many mouths t' feed," Uncle Eb remarked.

"I could take in sewing and help some," said Elizabeth Brower as she slipped her tea.

There was a little quiver in David's under lip as he looked over at her.

"You ain't able t' do hard work any more, mother," said he.

"She won't never hev to nuther," said Uncle Eb. "Don't never pay t' go lookin' fer trouble; it's tew easy t' find. There ain't no sech thing 's trouble in this world 'less ye look fer it. Happiness won't hev nuthin' t' do with a man that looks fer trouble. Minut a man stops lookin' fer trouble happiness 'll look fer him. Things come purty nigh 's ye like 'em here in this world, hot or cold or only middlin'. Ye can either laugh or cry or fight or shiver or go t' meetin'. If ye don't like erry one ye can fit fault. I'm on the lookout fer happiness. Suits me best, sence I can't do nuthin' but feelin' a bit better day by day."

"Everythin' a kind uv a day," said Elizabeth, "but I don't know, w'al's the good time if they'll only stop hev'n' me w'al's."

I ever as much hereafter as I've hed t' be ain't a goin' t' fin' no fault," said Uncle Eb. "S a reel splendid world, 's fixed it up so ev'rybody can hev nuthin' but happiness. It can be heard uv a poor man 'at's t'ed. On t' corn give tew him, 'll be a lookin' kind o' sad an' astir if he looks like sech shell it. Then they t'ed. It awn'ed's gin us happiness in the ear, but ain't a goin' t' shell it fer us. Yea, 'Lizabeth oughter be very happy, 'ok a them tew children."

There was a rap at the door that brought us on his cap and went out with t' Eb.

"It's somebody for more money," Elizabeth whispered, her eyes filling. "I know, or he would have asked him in t' be goin' t' lose our home."

Here she quivered. She covered her eyes a moment.

"Don't ain't well," she continued. "Wor'n't night an' day over money matter. Don't say much, but I can see it in his eyes. Wake up in the middle o' the night awhile ago. Found him sittin' by the stove. Mother, 'Lizabeth, we can't never go back to farm. I've plowed furrows enough t' go round the world. Couldn't never go t'ough it ag'in. Well, said I, 'if you tak best we could start over an' see how we sit along. I'm willin' t' try it. 's, we're too old, he says. That's out the question. I've been thinkin' what we do there with Bill an' Hope if ye go t' live with 'em. Don't suppose they'll hev any hosses t' take care uv any wood t' chop. What we'll bet t' do is more'n I can make out. We'll do nuthin'; we've never learnt how."

"I've thought that all over," I said. "May have a place in the country 's a big garden."

"Well," said she, "I'm very well if I am her sixty. I can cook an' wash an' iron just as well as I ever could."

Uncle Eb came to the door.

"Well," he said, "I want an' Hope t' come at here and t' at this young color' name. He's a real 's a kitten."

We put on our wraps and went to the stable. Uncle Eb was alone.

He brought a Christmas present, a pair of shoes, and a pair of gloves.

Hope.

"Be sure an' put the names on 'em," Uncle Eb whispered as Hope went away.

"What hev ye done with the 'b'lers?" I inquired.

"Sold 'em," said he, laughing. "Barker never kept his promise. Heard they'd gone over t' the burg an' was tryin' t' sell more territory. I says t' Dave, 'You let me manage 'em an' I'll put 'em out o' business here in this part o' the country.' So I writ out an advertisement fer the paper. Read about this way:

"For sale. Twelve hundred patented suction wash 'b'lers. Any one at can't stan' prosperity an' is learnin' t' swear 'll find 'em a great help. If he don't, he's a bigger fool 'n I am. Nuthin' in 'em but tin—that's with sumthin'." Warranted t' hold water."

"Waal, ye know how that editor talks? 'Twan't a day fore the head man o' the 'b'ler business come an' bought 'em. An' the advertisement was never put in. Guess he want' hankerin' t' hev his business sp'ilt."

Uncle Eb was not at the supper table that evening.

"Where's Holden?" said Elizabeth Brower.

"Dunno," said David. "Goin' after Santa Claus, he tol' me."

"Never see the best o' that man!" was the remark of Elizabeth as she poured the tea. "Jes like a boy ev'ry Christmas time. Been so excited fer a week couldn't hardly contain himself."

"Ketched him out 'n the barn t'other day laffin' like a fool," said David. "Thought he was crazy."

We sat by the fire after the supper dishes were put away, talking of all the Christmas days we could remember. Hope and I thought our last in Faraway best of all, and no wonder, for we had got then the first promise of the great gift that now made us happy. Elizabeth, sitting in her easy chair, told of Christmas in the olden time, when her father had gone to the war with the British.

David sat near me, his face in the firelight, the broad brow wrinkled into furrows, and framed in locks of iron gray. He was looking thoughtfully at the fire. Uncle Eb came soon, stamping and shaking the snow out of his great fur coat.

"Col' night," he said, warming his hands.

Then he carried his coat and cap away, returning shortly with a little box in his hand.

"Jes thought I'd buy this fer you," said he, holding it down to the fire. "I dunnoed if I ever see the like o' it. Whoa!" he shouted as the cover opened, releasing a jumping jack. "Nether'n a grasshopper! D'y'e ever see such a sassy little critter?"

He handed it to Elizabeth.

"Ain't as merry as I might be," said David.

"Know what's the matter with you?" said Uncle Eb. "Searchin' after you."

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I am a candidate for Representative of the counties of Breathitt, Magoffin and Lee, subject to the Democratic convention; or what action they may take. I am a Democrat of the old school, served four years in the Confederate army, have voted the straight Democratic ticket for 47 years, stood by all the nominees of the party, so I feel at liberty and believe that I have the right to ask the party to send me to the Legislature, where I can continue to do the party good, as I have always been loyal to the party, also all of my relatives before me. So I hope the people will consider my right to call upon them and the one interest in which I pledge myself to look after.

Real Elixir of Life.

Contentment is the real elixir of life. It is the real fountain from which flow the waters of personal youth.

Sometimes it costs an effort, a tremendous effort, to say it is all right, but the man or woman who can say it is much better off for this looking at the sunny side of the world than the person who harbors a grievance against all mankind and walks through the world burdened with the somber thoughts of his disappointments.

The discontented perhaps never stop to think how much worse off they could be; that, no matter how few their pleasures, there are those in the world who have fewer or none at all; that, given health and strength and the full possession of the senses, they are advantaged and blessed in the race of existence.
